

An aerial satellite-style photograph of an athletic field complex. The central feature is a large, vibrant green rectangular field, likely a soccer or football pitch. To the left of this field is a large, light-brown rectangular area, possibly a dry field or a different type of turf. Below the green field is a dark, grid-patterned structure, which could be a covered walkway or a seating area. To the right of the main green field, there are two smaller, light-colored rectangular areas, possibly sand pits or smaller practice fields. The entire complex is surrounded by green grass and some trees. A red location pin is placed on the right side of the main green field, with the text 'Morven Park Athletic Field Complex' next to it.
